

There has been a lot of changes throughout the years. Never a dull moment and that is just what life is about. We are constantly in motion. I wrote this song with Terje Nordgarden at a songwriting retreat in Todalen, Norway.

Changes

She's standing in the doorway
Been waiting all night long
Waiting on her daddy
Oh, Daddy won't you come on home
Been waiting all night long

Life is funny in so many ways
You go to bed with the sun
Then you wake up with the rain
Another day
And you live it all over again

Sometimes it feels like dying
Feels like dying
When the whole world's caving in
Nothing makes sense
You don't know where to begin
But then you're flying
Suddenly you're flying
At the blink of an eye
Everything can change

He never knew what hit him
Till he was on the ground
Like a flash from a clear, blue sky
Lightning struck him down
Yeah, lightning struck him down

Sometimes it feels like dying
Feels like dying
When the whole world's caving in
Nothing makes sense
You don't know where to begin
But then you're flying
Yeah suddenly you're flying
At the blink of an eye
Everything can change

You don't know your own strength
If you always have the wind at your back
You gotta balance the scales
Take both the good and the bad
Take both the good and the bad

Sometimes it feels like dying
Feels like dying
When the whole world's caving in
Nothing makes sense
You don't know where to begin
But then you're flying
Yeah suddenly you're flying
At the blink of an eye
Everything can change